SNOW SHOE CONSTABLE IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Struck in Head by Point of Pick in Vicious Attack.

FRANK AUMAN IN JAIL

Snow Shoe district was the scene of a deplorable affair on last Thuasday evening when H. H. Gillettee, constable, was seriously injured in a vicious attack. Sheriff Taylor communicated with the hospital in Lock Haven on Tuesday evening and was told that Mr. Gillette was still unconscious at times, that the sight of his one eye was much impaired and he would lose the other eye, even if he should recover from the terrible beating given him.

Frank Auman, a young man of the Snow Shoe district, was arrested by Sheriff E. R. Taylor on Friday morning and placed in jail in Bellefonte to be held in connection with tha affair, pending the result of the injuries inflicted upon Mr. Gillette.

There is considerable mystery about the attack. So far as could be learned, no reason or excuse could be discovered for it. Mr. Gillette is well along in life, being 64 years old. and is one of the best known residents of Snow Shoe. He was about his duties as constable, in which office he has been engaged for several years, and was serving warrants upon four families who had failed to comply with the compulsory school attendance law by keeping their children out of school.

In front of the residence of "Stiney" Shall, one of the men for whom a warrant had been issued, the attack was made. As Mr. Gillette was rendered unconscious and has been unable to tell of the circumstances under which he was injured, there is some doubt as to what occurred.

The version of the attack which seems most likely correct was that several men stopped the constable with intent to prevent him from serving the warrants and, during the altercation which followed, one of them, said to be Auman, struck him with a pick, the point of it cutting a hole in his forehead through which his brain seeped.

Realizing that Mr. Gillette was seriously injured, friends had him taken to the Lock Haven hospital as soon as possible, where he has since lingered in a critical condition. The authorities at Bellefonte were promptly informed of the attack and the part in which Auman was alleged to have struck him with the pick. Auman fled after the attack and the Sheriff had difficulty in locating him. After several hours search it was learned he was at Cherry Run, where he was taken into custody.

Two Killed in Klan Riot.

Two persons were killed and a score or more injured in a riot at Lilly, nearby Johnstown, last Saturday night. Residents of Lilly, which is a coal mining town, resented the burning of crosses by a large delegation of Ku Klux Klan visitors, who arrived in special trains. After the crosses had been burned and the Klan members were about to depart, residents of the town suddenly turned a stream of water from a fire hose upon them. Street lights were put out. In a general riot which followed hundreds of revolver shots were fired. Two lifeless bodies were found when the street lights were turned on. Many of the wounded were removed to Johnstown and Altoona hospitals. Upward of 20 Klansmen were arrested and lodged in the Johnstown jail, charged with carrying deadly weapons. On Monday the District Attorney of Cambria County had warrants issued charging a number of persons with murder.

Elks Elect Officers.

At the meeting of the Elks on Monday evening, officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows: Lodge—A. C. Dale, exalted ruler; W. W. Gherrity, esteemed leading knight; Charles Schlow, esteemed lecturing knight; John G. Love, esteemed loyal knight; G. W. Rees, tiler; Club—F. E. Naginey, president; George W. Rees, secretary-treasurer; F. E. Naginey, John G. Love, W. W. Gherrity, Park Homan, and Ray Noll, trustees.

Listed as Reckless Driver.

Howard Schneider, of Millvale, was placed on the blacklist in the Department of Highways, recently for reckless driving at a railroad crossing. The officials said that Schneider attempted to beat an approaching train and drove around another car that had stopped, with the result that his auto was hit by the train and railroad service delayed 35 minutes.

CONSERVATION MEETING HELD AT STATE COLLEGE

Decide That Plan of Organization Shall Be Changed.

MEET AGAIN IN MAY

The Centre County Conservation Association held an enthusiastic meeting at the Presbyterian church in State College on Monday evening at which the president, Phil Foster, of State College, presided, with J. A. Ferguson,the secretary, assisting.

The attendance was not as large as anticipated, about 75 men being present, representing Bellefonte, State College, Boalsburg, Lemont and Pine Grove Mills. After a delicious dinner, served in the basement dining hall, the meeting was called into executive session. Much consideration was given to the plan of organization and after careful deliberation it was decided to change the plan from individual to organization membership.

Heretofore it has been the custom to have individuals enroll as members with dues of $1 each per annum. This does not appeal to the sportsmen in general and, while fairly supported, has not brought as good results as desired.

Organizations will now be asked to enroll as a body, the dues to be $2 per year, which seems much less expensive, but will, it is thought, be sufficient to pay necessary expenses to keep the organization a live one. On the other hand, it was the general opinion of all at the meeting that the organization idea would appeal to the sportsmen, making it likely that practically every hunting and indoor life club would want to become members of a central organization, affiliated with the State Conservation Association, to preserve and foster natural life.

At present there are 16 organizations of the Centre County Conservation Association, but it is planned to have this number doubled over and over within another year through the organization membership arrangement. The matter will be given further consideration at the annual meeting of the Centre County Association next month in conjunction with the annual meeting of the State Conservation Council at State College.

Next year the voters will have before them for their disposition a proposed $25,000,000 bond issue to be used for purchase of wild land for state forests. The land wanted is being purchased rapidly by private interests who are taking away from the common people their right to fish and hunt upon it. This land should belong to the state so that all could use it freely and so that it would be properly maintained. The bond issue will make state ownership possible and will, it is understood, be supported by the conservation associations and the State Conservation Council. To make their organization fight worthwhile it is the desire of the present organization to develop it as much as possible and have as many members as can be gotten, so as to make a really strong association.

Reception to Rev. Steely.

A most delightful reception, under auspices of the Evangelical Ladies Aid Society, was given at the Evangelical Sunday School room on Tuesday evening in honor of the pastor, Rev. Reed O. Steely, and wife. A tureen supper, with an abundance of good things, was served. S. D. Gettig, Esq., was toastmaster and responses were made by Rev. Frank B. Hackett, Rev. E. E. McKelvey, Rev. M. C. Piper, Rev. C. C. Shuey, S. S. Aplin, Rev, and Mrs. Steely, Mrs. S. I. Poorman and Mrs. E. F. Young. Readings by Misses Eleanor Gettig and Eleanor Billett, a vocal solo and piano solo by Miss Ruth Poorman were enjoyable features. There was a large attendance and it was one of those fine get-together meetings that inspire all to better living.

Girls in Jail.

Two girls, Veronica Dubroski, of Conyngham, and Dora Shope, of Milesburg, were placed in jail here this week on a charge of passing a forged check and of obtaining goods under false pretense. A third girl, Delphia Shank, of Snow Shoe, eluded arrest. It is said the girls cashed a check for $35, which was signed R. Gencel, of State College, and drawn on the State College bank. The check was cashed at a College store, it is alleged, and was given in part payment for some merchandise. The girls were taken into custody by Harry Dukeman, chief of police.

Appointed Deputy Sheriff.

D. R. Foreman, of Bellefonte, former Prothonotary, was on Monday appointed Deputy Sheriff by Sheriff Dick Taylor. Mr. Foreman succeeds the late John L. Dunlap.

Hospital Appeal Not An Assessment

To the Citizens of Bellefonte and Spring Township:

It has come to my notice that there is some criticism from certain persons because of the letters sent out from Campaign Headquarters by the Committee conducting the hospital Drive; that it was an attempt on the part of the Committee to arbitrarily say what each person should contribute. This is a misapprehension of the facts. In the first placeIa perusal of the letter will show that the amount indicated was not to be constructed as an assessment and was suggested by a committee of "your friends" (made up of 20 or 30 business and professional men.) If $100,000 was to be raised the proposition had to be put on a business basis and the committee was told by our expert that everybody of giving power should first be listed and afterwards rated according to the best judgment of the committee so that there would be some basis to work upon. Naturally in such a big undertaking mistakes have been made—a very few have been rated too high and some too low, as evidenced by the fact that many have voluntarily increased the amount indicated when called upon for their subscriptions.

Don't confuse the issue by making a personal matter out of it. Keep in mind that it is your hospital making a plea for funds—not myself or any member of the committee.

Sincerely,
HENRY C. QUIGLEY,
Chairman.

EAGLES BANQUET

Knights and Ladies Enjoy Dinner and Talks.

The 34th annual banquet of the Knights of the Golden Eagle of Bellefonte and the Ladies Temple was held on Tuesday evening in the Brockerhoff House, 82 covers being laid. A delicious chicken dinner was served by Landlord M. A. Laudsy. Music was furnished by Samuel Bryant's orchestra.

J. Kennedy Johnston, Esq., was toastmaster and first called upon Gordon A. Williams, vice grand chief of the state and pastor of the M. E. church in Tyrone, who was the principal speaker. He emphasized the good work of the order as a supplement to the church, keeping those present in good humor by the jokes he told along with the deeper thoughts.

"I recall," said Mr. Williams, "when I was a boy at Port Matilda. My father was Township Assessor for many years and made frequent trips to Bellefonte and to the County Commissioners' office. On one occasion he told me to build a stretch of fence while he was in town. It was my first attempt and I was not so sure about how it would suit him. But I tackled it with a determination to do my best. I was not like the fellow whom the farmer told to fix a hole in the hog fence. He stoffed straw in the hole and, when the last straw was in, the farmer said, 'Say, fellow, that won't keep in the hogs.' 'Huh, I didn't even know you was looking,' was the astonished reply. When my father came home we looked over the fence. Then he put his hand upon my shoulder and said, 'That is a pretty good job.' Well, you folks who never had the same experience don't know how good it is to be so commended—the inspiration it gives you. I felt as big as I am now. That's what the Eagles stands for. The greatest achievement of a Knight of the Golden Eagles is to get that hand of the Father upon the shoulder when this life is finished. To have the Father say, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant. Thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things. Enter thou into the joys of the Lord.' I've been an Eagle since I was 18 years old, when I joined at PortMatilda, and I have ridden all the goats, including the buzzard and the hermit. And I can say truthfully that any person who spends any money or time in this order will never regret."

Mr. Johnston next called upon Rev. C. W. Winey, pastor of the United Brethren church in Tyrone. In speaking of Rev. Winey he recalled that it was eleven years since the former served four years as pastor of the local United Brethren church.

Rev. Winey stressed the thought that folks are not careful enough of their contributions in this world, explaining his idea that too many men and women are being robbed of their very best, their ability to think well and their personality, because of the wonderful development of machinery which does most of the work nowadays. He illustrated with examples, one of which was a man who had been tending a bolt machine for years until all he could do was feed the large piece of metal into it, which automatically went from one stage to another through the machine until it came forth a finished bolt.

E. E. Ardery and L. H. Wian were the only members present who were in the lodge at its start. After singing a verse of America, benediction was pronounced and on every hand, as social chatting was in progress, could be heard the appreciative comments that it was one of the best banquets ever held by the Eagles.

First Circus Man Here.

An advance agent of the Walter L. Main circus was in Bellefonte on Friday arranging for the first show of the year to be scheduled for Bellefonte. The circus will be in Tyrone on May 15 and in Bellefonte on Friday, May 16.

LOWLANDS FLOODED

Local Streams Swollen by Heavy Rains.

Bald Eagle and Spring creeks over flowed their banks at a number of places during Sunday night and Monday morning as a result of the streams being swollen by heavy spring rains, coming when the creeks were almost bank full because of meltidg of one of the season's deepest snowfalls.

The snow storm came on Tuesday of last week and was aqout 8 to 10 inches in depth. It melted rapidly. Then came rain onSaturday evening which continued steadily all night and Sunday until evening. At times the precipitation was great. As the ground was well soaked, the streams soon started to rise and reached their height on Sunday night.

The floods did very little damage in Centre County. In some sections of the state the damage was very great. The Bald Eagle flooded the lowlands between Mill Hall and Lock Haven so deeply that trolley service was discontinued. Very few motorists attempted to get through. Two who tried it were given enough thrills when their cars were overturned by the swiftness of the current and the occupants were obliged to cling to the cars until state highway trucks pulled them to safety. At Milesburg the water stood over the state road between Wetzel's store and the railroad crossing.

The downpour at intervals really did a lot of good locally, giving the town a thorough scrubbing, leaving it bright and clean. The heavy spring rains the past several years have left the town more noticeably clean than previously because it seems to get much dirtier over winter since so many homes are heated by soft coal.

MODERN WOODMEN GAINS

Centre County Order Growing With Good Outlook.

Modern Woodmen in Centre County made a marked growth during 1923. A report, just filed with the state insurance department, shows that 132,000 benefit certificates, with a net increase in membership during the year of 34,771 and $36,586,000 more insurance in force.

The society's field workers' slogan is "Make it more in twenty-four," and results are apparent. April has been designated "Talbot month," in honor of the Head Consul, or president, A. R. Talbot, of Lincoln, Neb. Modern Woodmen of Bellefonte, of whom there are 110 in good standing, are in this drive. Bellefonte's quota for April is 10 new members. Get busy and put it "over the top."

At the last Head Camp in St. Louis in 1921, the ambitious program of writing a million new members in 10 years was undertaken. One-fourth of that number has been secured. The Modern Woodmen of America was organized in 1883. Beneficial membership Jan. 1, last numbered 1,084,842. It has a surplus of $30,000,000 invested in interest-bearing securities, and cash assets of $5,000,000.

An attractive feature is a sanatorium or the care of tubercular members. It is located near Colorado Springs, Colo., and rated as the best equipped and maintained of any in this country. Afflicted members in good standing are treated free. Since it was opened Jan. 1, 1909, 6,500 patients have been enrolled, with permanent cure or marked improvement in 75% of all cases.

Horse Scared Deer.

Three deer in the park zoo at Williamsport broke out of their enclosure on Friday when a horse got into it and scared them. One of the deer was severely cut in breaking through the fence, but the others were not injured. All were caught after considerable trouble, and put back into the park.

BANK DEPOSITORS WIN IN U. S. SUPREME COURT

Compromise of 50c. on Dollar May Be Submitted Tonight.

COMMITTEE WILL MEET

The United States Supreme Court on Monday handed down an opinion sustaining decisions of the lower federal courts, which had been favorable to the depositors' committee in the Centre County Bank case. The Supreme Court ordered that legal representatives of the late John M. Shugert have thirty days in which to file an appearance on the records, for protection of both heirs and creditors.

The case as it was originally submitted to the Supreme Court was in the form of a motion to dismiss all that had been done by the lower federal courts on the ground that they had no jurisdiction in the matter. The lower courts had ruled that Mr. Shugert, as a partner, was within his rights in filing a petition in bankruptcy on behalf of the bank. It was contended for Geo. R. Meek, Mrs. Florence Dale and Andrew Breeze that one partner could not declare another partner, or partners, bankrupt.

When the attorneys appeared before the Supreme Court, counsel for Mr. Meek, Mrs. Dale and Mr. Breeze amended their motion by setting forth that Mr. Shugert's death abated, or ended, his petition in bankruptcy and that his estate should be administered in the Centre County courts.

As a result of the Supreme Court ruling, matters are exactly where they started two years ago, and the next step will be a petition by depositors for a hearing before Judge Witmer, in the federal district court, on the question of the bank being, or not being, insolvent. Unless it can be shown that the bank is not insolvent, Judge Witmer will be asked to declare it bankrupt. M. Ward Fleming, trustee in bankruptcy for this district, will then be directed to assemble the claims of depositors and a trustee to wind up the affairs of the bank will be appointed. The burden of determining who are liable as partners will fall upon the trustee.

A meeting of the depositors' committee of the bank has been called for this evening, by which time it is hoped to have the Supreme Court opinion in hand. It is said that at tonight's meeting a offer of compromise to be submitted will plan depositors 50 cents on the dollar on their claims. How this will appeal to the committee, or to the depositors in n general, remains to be seen.

Receiver Ivan Walker has collected numerous claims owing to the bank in the last few months. Life insurance amounting to $9,000, or more, was paid to the bank by the John M. Shugert estate a few days ago. A possible asset for the bank which may improve the outlook for all depositors is the Potter-Hoy Hardware Co. building, which was owned by the late James Harris and which, under his will, was believed to have passed to Mrs. John M. Shugert and her sister, Mrs. J. Mac. Curtin. Representatives of the bank, who value the building at $40,000, and upward, now claim that it passed into the ownership of Mrs. George F. Harris, and not her daughters, Mrs. Shugert and Mrs. Curtin, and therefore becomes an asset of the bank. Because of doubt as to actual ownership of the building, the rents received from its tenants since the Centre County Bank failed have not been paid to anybody.

Had Trouble With Car.

Quite a bit of trouble was experienced by Darius Cole, formerly of Coleville, in motoring here from Altoona in a Jackson car on Saturday for an over Sunday visit with his father, Jacob Cole. Mr. Cole, his wife and son Gilbert, were in the car. It was slightly damaged by fire from a short circuit, just before Pine Grove Mills was reached, and there was considerable delay before Mr. Cole was able to get the car running again. The car is owned by his brother-in-law, George Love, also of Altoona, who had gone to Punxsutawney by train and accompanied his mother to Bellefonte, visiting here a few hours and then the party returned to Altoona in the car. Darius Cole has accepted a position in the Altoona machine shops and contemplates moving his household goods to that city.

Awarded Road Contract.

The contract for building a modern highway, 3374 feet in length, in State College, has been awarded to P. B. Colgan Co., Inc., of Lewistown, for $51,550.97.

HOSPITAL PROGRESS IS REPORTED BY WORKERS

Over Half Quota of Bellefonte and Spring Twp. Subscribed

DRIVE ENDS ON MONDAY

Hospital drive canvassers for Bellefonte and Spring Township met on Tuesday at the Brockerhoff House at 12 o'clock. The meeting was presided over by Rev. Wilson P. Ard, president of the Kiwanis Club in the absence of Colonel Henry C Quigley, who was in Philadelphia for subscriptions. At the conclusion of the luncheon, Mr. Ard called on the division chairmen for reports. All reported progress. Except Bellefonte and Spring Township it was not possible to report definite subscriptions. Each division leader believes that his division will go over the top by next Monday night. Mr. Ard then called on Mr. Emerick to have his lieutenants report which they did as follows:

John M Bullock, $4,832; George Hazel $4,096; A. H. Sloop, $5,530; Harry C. Yeager, $4,508; George Carpeneto, $4,455; Oscar Gray, $1,775; total, $25,186.

These contributions represent subscriptions from 90% of the prospective givers who were asked for amounts less than $400.00 and includes a number of subscriptions from those who have given in excess of $400.00. It was evident to the captains and lieutenants, in fact to all the workers, that if the campaign is to be a success and $50,000 is raised from Bellefonte and Spring Township by next Monday evening, those who can give large subscriptions will have to do so before that time to assure the success of the drive.

After the reports were made by the lieutenants, President Ard complimented the workers on the thoroughness with which the canvass had been made and urged them to complete their work at the earliest possible time. It was agreed that every effort should be made to secure a number of large subscriptions before Monday evening. Hundreds of gifts have been made in amounts ranging from $5.00 upwards where the gifts mean real personal sacrifice. This same spirit of sacrifice on the part of every citizen would put the campaign far over the top. By the time this report appears in the press it is the hope of the campaign workers that a number of generous gifts will have been reported to headquarters.

The regular Kiwanis meeting resolved itself into a one devoted entirely to hospital matters.

The campaign will close with a dinner at the Brockerhoff House next Monday evening, April 14th, at 6:45 o'clock. This dinner will be attended by workers from all parts of the county and it is hoped that when the reports are turned in every division will have secured its quota. At this occasion a silver loving cup will be given to the division securing the largest percentage of over-subscriptions.

Stephen C. Pohe, whom it was hoped would be present at the opening dinner of the campaign, has written that unless he is called out of the city on company business, he will be here Monday evening at the closing dinner. Mr. Pohe has been invited to speak on the problem of managing a hospital, His experience in the campaign for the Memorial hospital in Johnstown, and as president of that big institution, assures the workers in this campaign that they will hear a very helpful message. Outside of his business as vice-president of the Penn Public Service Corporation, Mr. Pohe devotes most of his time to the interests of the Memorial hospital.

Fishing Season Opens Tuesday.

Trout fishing season will open next Tuesday, but indications are that not so many persons will try it out in Centre County streams as the water is too high and turbulent as a result of recent flood conditions. More than a million and a half trout were planted in streams last year in the state. Nearly one-third of this number were planted in Wayne County, however. Not so many were planted in Centre County and this leads local fisherman to draw a conclusion that visitors will not be attracted here as formerly.

Brothers Waived Hearing.

The Stewart Brothers, of Rush Twp., taken before a United States commissioner at Williamsport on Saturday to answer the federal charge of misusing the mails in connection with the alleged writing of "black hand" letters, waived a hearing and will appear in Federal court in Scranton in May.

MIGRANTS

The birds set forth on their migrant flight,
A living cloud on the darkened night;
So swift their pace as they hastened on
The world rolled under their echelon.

They steered with never a guiding line
But found their way by a chart divine,
A wondrous map that their fathers knew
When earth was young and the first birds flew.

A lighthouse stood on their pathway clear,
A man-made warning of danger near;
The rays with a blinding brilliance shone
For perils never a bird had known.

They breasted the storm and sea in vain
To dash their wings on the lighthouse pane.
Poor feathered fools—they were not to blame;
The migrant angels have done the same.

How U. S. and Britain Fixed Boundary Line

The famous slogan, "Fifty-four forty or fight!" was first written by Enoch W. Eastman, a delegate to a Democratic county convention in Iowa. He wrote some resolutions about local politics, and then added: "In the matter of the northwestern boundary we are for 'Fifty-four forty or fight.'" A state convention later adopted the same resolution. It was taken up by the Democratic press and speakers and spread like wildfire. In the guesses made by the public as to who was the author of the watchword, many prominent Democrats were named, but most of them centered on Lewis Cass of Michigan.

Caught up as a party cry and with the "reoccupation" of the whole of Oregon inserted side by side with the annexation of Texas as a plank of the Democratic platform on which James K. Polk was nominated for the presidency, the country, during the campaign of 1844 rang with the defiant slogan.

James Buchanan, secretary of state, offered the old line of the forty-ninth parallel between British and American possessions west of the Rockies, an offer that was rejected by Great Britain. Polk withdrew Buchanan's offer and reasserted his determination to stand out for the whole of Oregon.

And before the summer of 1846 arrived Great Britain had accepted the forty-ninth parallel as the demarcation line between her Far West possessions and those of the United States, on the precise terms which the United States had from the first been willing to accept. Polk had been "bluffing."—Detroit News.

Mimosa Plant Protects Itself in Odd Manner

The mimosa of Brazil is a plant which reveals more "intelligence," perhaps, than any other. A footfall, a light touch, or any sudden disturbance will cause the leaves to close together and hang as though they had suddenly wilted.

Grazing animals are attracted by the light green leaves of the mimosa. At their approach the plant will begin to droop. The attractive fresh leaves of a moment before look dry and utterly unappetizing. The marauding animal does not fancy the dried-up dinner and so it moves on.

Should the animal, however, be particularly hungry, and inclined to investigate further, he gets some nasty pricks from the long sharp thorns with which the stems of the plant are studded. He is soon convinced that a meal in this spot would be accompanied by much pain, so he goes. A few minutes after the danger is past the mimosa will resume its usual appearance and look as green and fresh as ever.

"Don Quixote"

Shakespeare himself has written nothing so full of the diverse stuff or experience, so quietly and steadily illuminated by gentle wisdom, so open-eyed in discerning the strength of the world; and Shakespeare himself is not more courageous in championing the rights of the gallant heart. How is it that at every step of our journey we come to like the Don better, until in the end we can hardly put a limit to our love and reverence for him? Is it possible that the criticism is double-edged, and that what we are celebrating with our laughter is the failure of the world?—Sir Walter Raleigh, in "Some Authors."

Ant Empires

Some surprising facts have been gathered with respect to the mound-making ants of the Alleghenies. McCook has measured some mounds more than thirty feet in circumference, although rarely more than three feet in height. But around these there are many new mounds in course of construction, only a few inches in height. They are found in groups, of which one contains 1,700 mounds within a space of fifty acres. Their total population is enormous, and each group of mounds appears to constitute a community—an insect kingdom or empire.

WANT LEGION HOME.

State College Ex-Service Men Considering Plans.

Members of the State College post, American Legion, are seriously thinking of having a suitable building erected for an American Legion home. A meeting will be held this month to take definite steps. It is planned to have the building serve the community, to be used as a home not only for the American Legion but the Boy Scouts and other worthy American organizations.

Over 100 ex-service men were at a rally held in the State College hotel on Friday evening. The big rally was under joint auspices of the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Disabled American Veterans. The vets were treated to smokes and good eats, as well as delightful entertainment including solos by the Dean sisters, of Homestead; Mrs. C. C. Wagner, Mrs. W. F. Leitzell and W. Hess. Jeff Messmer gave a humorous reading that proved a feature of the gathering. Rev. E. H. Romig spoke on the spirit of co-operation as manifested by the veterans. Other speakers were F. O. Maeder, commander of the disabled veterans; Daniel Krumrine, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Commander Warner, of the American Legion.

Mr. Edwards pointed out the need for a new home and his plan was heartily endorsed and approved. The veterans realize that the building of a new home just now is a big proposition that would require the aid of every veteran and support of the community.

WITH THE FUNNY MEN

DIFFICULT DIAGNOSIS

The young mother was frantic. Her two-year-old daughter howled and howled and howled.

"Whatever is the matter with the child?" asked the father in despair.

His wife sank limply into a chair and began to weep, while the baby went on howling.

"I d-d-d-on't know," sobbed the distracted mother. "It's either because she's eaten too many strawberries or she wants more!"—Hygeia.

Engagement Efficiency.

"Is it true," asked the young man, "that since you came here you have become engaged to Tom, Fred, Billy and Arthur, as well as to me?" The girl assumed an air of disdain. "What is that to you?" she demanded. "Just this," he replied briefly. "If it's so, and you have no objections, we fellows will all chip in to buy an engagement ring."

ON THE RUN

First Burglar—Gad, that wuz a narrer escape!

Second Burglar—Didn't yer have time to take anything?

First Burglar—Didn't have time t' take me breath.

Safety First.

He was not moved by chivalry,
Nor feared the look of scorn—
He offered her his street car seat
To keep her off his corn.
—S. J.

Not Quite.

The Press Man (interviewing notorious personage recently released from prison)—And then shall I say that you walked forth from the grim gates of prison a free man?

The Notoriety—No, no, you can't say that. I had the wife with me!—London Humorist.

Political Sickness.

"I see Senator Smirk isn't going to run at the next election on account of sickness."

"Sickness? Why, he looks hale and hearty to me."

"Yes, but his voters are sick of him."

Obvious Evidence.

Suitor—I say your daughter has promised to marry me and all that sort of thing. But one must be careful. I'd like to know if there is any insanity in your family?

Father—Judging by what you say, there must be.

ONLY PART OF HIM FELL

"When you caught Willie in the pantry didn't he fall?"

"No; only his face fell."

Obscuration.

An orator, to be exact,
Must ramble through philology,
And make it hard to find the fact
In all the phraseology.

To Insure Control.

Edith—I don't see why they need so many rehearsals for Sophie Strongarm and Percy Pinhedd's wedding.

Belle—Oh, that's so the bridesmaids won't laugh when she promises to obey.

Terrible.

"Yes, Mabel, I had to break my engagement to Charles. He was so exacting."

"What? He really wanted you to marry him?"

Bald Man's Luck.

Friend (to hunter)—What kind of luck did you have?

Hunter—Bald man's luck. I combed the woods without finding a single hare.

Threatening a Bolt.

"You will thunder down the ages," said the constituent with fulsome flattery. The great politician looked at him perplexedly. "Sometimes I imagine I am going to thunder," he said.

To Help Matters.

Theater Manager—I can't use your play, sir. It's too long for the stage.

Amateur Playwright—But, I say—aw—look here—aw! Can't you lengthen the stage, you know?

The woman who undertakes the administration of a home without understanding it, is on par with a man who establishes a home without being able to support it.

TASTY GOOD THINGS

It cannot be said too often that foods that should be served hot, should be hot, served on warmed plates. On the other hand, food such as salad, be it prepared of fish, flesh, fruit or fowl if lukewarm, is a "gastronomic solecism, intolerable and not to be endured."

Charlotte Russe.—Take a stale sponge cake, one-half pint of whipping cream, half-cupful of powdered sugar and the whites of two eggs whipped to a stiff froth. Line a cake mold with slices of cake, fitting one piece into the bottom of the mold. Whip the cream stiff and beat into this the meringue and sugar flavoring with vanilla. Fill the cake-lined mold with this, cover with more slices of cake and set on ice for an hour or two. Loosen the contents of the mold with a broad knife and turn out upon a chilled glass dish.

Panned Oysters.—Toast bread and butter well, wet with the oyster liquor and lay in a baking dish. Arrange as many oysters as the bread will hold, dot with bits of butter, cover and bake eight minutes in a very hot oven, until the edges of the oysters are ruffled. Serve at once.

Jellied Chicken.—Boil a good-sized fowl until tender and leave it in the water all night. Remove the fowl and season the stock, skim and strain and put over again with the bones from which the meat has been stripped. Crack the bones so that all the flavor will be extracted. Soak one-fourth of a cupful of gelatin and stir into the hot stock. When it is dissolved take from the fire and cool. When it begins to jelly pour into a buttered mold. Arrange in this hard cooked egg minced, two chopped olives and the chicken meat cut into neat cubes. When filled the mold should be set in a cold place for several hours. Turn out when ready to serve. Nice for a picnic luncheon.

This jellied chicken may be molded in small molds and served on lettuce with mayonnoise, making a very fine salad.

"All riches are desirable, and we are justified in seeking them all; but the riches of mind and soul give the greatest happiness and add the most to value of life. When it comes to riches of mind and soul can you say you are a millionaire? To be such a millionaire would certainly be worth while, and here we find a new ambition."

SIMPLE DISHES

A wholesome dessert which is good for the children is:

Butterscotch Pudding. — Melt one cupful of brown sugar and two tablespoonfuls of butter and cook until melted and brown; be careful not to burn. Pour over the mixture two cupfuls of hot milk and simmer ten minutes until all is dissolved. Meanwhile soak an inch-slice of bread in cold water until soft and press out all the water and crumble into bits. Pour the milk, sugar and butter mixture over the bread and beat in the yolks of two eggs, a little salt and a small teaspoonful of vanilla. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake in a pan of water twenty-five minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, add two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, the juice of half a lemon and beat again. Spread over the pudding and brown in a moderate oven.

Lemon Cheese Cakes.—For the filling for five individual pies, take one egg, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, the grated rind and a tablespoonful of lemon juice, one-fourth of a cupful of cake crumbs. Beat the yolk of an egg, add the sugar, salt, lemon juice and rind with the crumbs, mix well, fold in the beaten white of the egg which has been beaten stiff and turn into pastry-lined patty tins. Bake until the filling is set.

Tapioca and Date Sponge.—Cook one-third of a cupful of tapioca in a pint of boiling water slightly salted. When the tapioca is transparent, stir in one-half pound of dates which have been washed and pits removed, add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and the juice of a large lemon. Beat the whites of two eggs very light and fold in the tapioca mixture. Cover and let stand on the back of the range until ready to serve. Serve with sugar and cream.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

COPYRIGHT BY WESTERN NEWSPAPER UNION

MISS WITCH-HAZEL

"In the fall of the year," said Daddy, "there are yellow flowers to be seen on bushes which have large and thick leaves.

"My Namesake."

"These flowers are alongside of the twigs of these bushes and they are known as the Witch-Hazel flowers.

"There are some that flower in the spring but the ones of which I'm speaking flower in the fall.

"Miss Witch-Hazel Bush was dressed up in her very best, and very, very proud was she

"'I am going to have an exciting time next summer,' she said.

"Instead of wearing a flowery dress I shall think only of fruit and I will shoot forth seeds as my fruit pods burst and in this way more witch-hazel shrubs will be able to grow up.

"I really live for that wonderful time when I can shoot forth these seeds. I shoot them some distance. It is most exciting.

"I hope you will always be able to recognize me—which means that I hope you will always be able to know who I am when you see me.

"One of the best ways of telling who I am is to see if my flowers have four yellow strap-shaped petals which come when my leaves are falling.

"My leaves are broad and have straight veins. My leaves and bark go to make up my namesake in the medicine closet.

"Yes, you've all heard of witch-hazel. Well, witch-hazel got its name from our family, for we make witch-hazel.

"We're not the kind either that creatures turn up their noses at as they do old castor oil and some of those disagreeable things.

"We're not to be swallowed. No indeed. That's where we are so nice.

"We don't go about with that manner which castor oil has as though to say: "'You'll be sick if you don't take us. Maybe we'll make you sick for awhile, but in the end we will make you well.'

"We don't make anyone sick first. No, we're not like that. As I said, we don't want to be swallowed—I mean my Medicine Closet relative doesn't want to be swallowed.

"Witch-hazel was never supposed to be swallowed. No, it can be used for burns and sprains and all kinds of sore places. But it is never to be swallowed. Never, never.

"'We help gentlemen after shaving—they can put our Medicine Closet Cousin over their faces and so keep their faces from feeling rough.

"'Oh, we're very useful. Homes, in my opinion, aren't homes without us.

"'We help headaches. We don't do people any harm either the way some horrid medicines will do.

"Witch Hazel Flowers."

"'No, we're cool and pleasant when some of the drops of the Witch Hazel family are put upon a big handkerchief and then put upon the aching head.

"'No horrible swallowing of us! We're to be used outside and not taken inside!'

"So," said Daddy, "you may see Witch-Hazel shrubs some day and you will know that it is from the witch-hazel plants that witch-hazel comes and that Miss Witch-Hazel is going to shoot forth seeds from her fruit pods next summer. And, too, that she is already looking forward to that day!"

Possible Reason.

"This chicken tastes rather wooden."

"Well, it was hatched in an incubator, raised in a pen, and sent to a cold storage warehouse."

A Dig.

Miss Thirtee—There are so many fast young men nowadays.

Miss Eighteen—Yes, dear, you do seem to have difficulty in catching on.

Failed to Note.

"Well, I didn't notice just where he landed."—London Weekly Telegraph.

Natural.

Albert—It's funny, but I'm always luckiest when I'm broke.

Herbert—How's that?

Albert—I never lose any money then.

LABOR SHORTAGE

Farmer Ragwort—Minerva, did ye notice that that new hired man is sort of makin' eyes at our Tilly?

Mrs. Ragwort—Yes, the impudent scamp. But Tilly will soon flare up and show him his place.

Farmer Ragwort—Er, what? Ye don't think as Tilly'd turn him down before I get the harvest in and the silos filled, do ye?"

Presenting a Scapegoat.

"John, wake up," whispered his wife. "There's a burglar in the house."

"Well, what do you want me to do—get up and run the risk of being killed?"

"No, but if you find in the morning that somebody's been through your pockets, don't blame me."

The Old Hen.

Mr. Flubdub didn't like his mother-in-law. He came in one day and, hearing a racket, demanded: "What's the old hen up to now?"

"Laying a carpet," replied his wife briefly.

Private Performance.

He—Has your friend, the soprano, ever reached high C?

She—Yes; one day at the dentist's I believe she did.

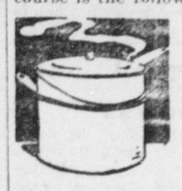
Success treads on the heels of every right effort.

All that is great in man comes through work; and civilization is its product.—Samuel Smiles.

DISHES FOR FALL MEALS

A nice croquette to serve with a fish course is the following:



Hominy and Horseradish Croquettes. — Take one-fourth of a cupful of hominy, steam it until tender, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, three-fourths of a cupful of milk scalded, and cook with it until absorbed. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter, three and one-half teaspoonfuls of grated horseradish root. Cool, shape, dip into crumbs, into egg, crumbs again and fry in deep fat. Drain on brown paper.

Prune Pudding.—Wash three-fourths of a pound of prunes. Cover with cold water and soak over night. Cook in the same water until soft and the water nearly evaporated. Remove the stones and cut the prunes into small pieces, then sprinkle with one-half cupful of sugar. Beat four eggs until stiff and add the prunes gradually. Pour into a slightly buttered pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven twenty-five minutes. Serve with a custard sauce well chilled.

Canadian Meat Pie.—Remove the meat from a knuckle of veal. Put the bones into a kettle, cover with cold water, add two slices of onion, one slice of carrot and twelve peppercorns. Bring to the boiling point, add the meat, and simmer until tender. Remove the meat, simmer the stock to two cupfuls. Put a slice of ham in a frying pan, cover with lukewarm water and let stand an hour. Brown four tablespoonfuls of butter with four tablespoonfuls of flour and stock, then add the veal and ham cut into cubes and simmer twenty minutes. Cover with pastry and bake.

He Was Willing

An impecunious tenant had not paid the rent of his room for several months.

"Look here," said the landlord, "I'll meet you half way. I am ready to forget half of what you owe!"

"Right. I'll meet you. I'll forget the other half."

Are You Ready For Easter?

Easter will soon be here, followed by the most beautiful days of Spring.

Are you prepared?

Never before have merchants been so well stocked with seasonable merchandise as now.

Easter shoppers will be greeted by the newest of everything in millinery, in frocks and fabrics, or in shoes for the women, while men's stores have the most advanced styles in apparel which classifies a man as "well dressed."

For the Spring refurnishing of the home---the newest in carpetings and draperies are shown for your approval.

Your home merchant has busied himself stocking up for the season to give you greater selections and we advise you---give him a visit.

Announcement

FOR CONGRESS

We are authorized to announce the name of William I. Swoope, of Clearfield, Pa., as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the 23rd District, composed of the Counties of Centre, Clearfield, Cameron and McKean, at the Spring Primary on April 22nd, 1924.

FOR ASSEMBLY

THE REPUBLICAN is authorized to announce the candidacy of John L. Holmes, of State College, for the Republican nomination for Assembly, subject to the decision of the Republican primary election to be held on Tuesday, April 22nd., 1924. Mr. Holmes respectfully asks the support of all Republicans, assuring them that it will be duly appreciated.

FOR NATIONAL DELEGATE

I hereby announce my candidacy for delegate from the 23d Congressional District to the National Convention of the Republican Party, subject to the decision of the "voters" at the primary election to be held April 22, 1924. If I am chosen I will support Calvin Coolidge for President.

JAMES A. CONNELLY,
Ludlow, McKean, Co., Pa.

FOR NATIONAL DELEGATE

We are authorized to announce the name of Ella J. Mountz, of Smithmill, Clearfield County, Pennsylvania, as a candidate for the office of Delegate to the Republican National Convention for the 23d Congressional District of Pennsylvania. If elected will support Calvin Coolidge for President.

FOR ALTERNATE DELEGATE.

THE REPUBLICAN is authorized to announce the name of James P. Aiken, of State College, as a candidate at the Republican primaries, on April 22nd, 1924, for Alternate Delegate to the Republican national convention from the 23rd Congressional District. Mr. Aiken announces that if elected he will be instructed to vote for the nomination of Calvin Coolidge for President. On that platform he respectfully asks the active support and vote of every Republican in Centre County.

FOR THE HOSPITAL

It has become known that a number of persons interpreted the letter appealing for contributions for the hospital as a direct assessment upon them for the respective amounts suggested. Some who perhaps read the letter hastily regarded it as a direct command to subscribe a certain amount, and no less. Because of these and other misunderstandings, it is commonly reported that persons who had intended subscribing are inclined to give nothing at all.

As we understand the matter, a committee of citizens made up a list suggesting amounts which it was hoped would be somewhere near what various persons might be financially able to contribute. There has been no thought whatsoever of attempting to assess anybody. The aim is to raise as much money as possible by urging that each person give as much, and not a penny more, as he or she could afford. It would have been ridiculous for the committee to have tried to fix the amount individuals should contribute, and it need only be mentioned that the committee was too sensible to commit any such blunder.

Let everybody overlook little things which so easily are magnified into imaginary big things, because after all there is a principal at stake, namely, that of helping the hospital that is yours and ours. That is the one big thing in the movement. And let everybody remember that no matter how the letter in question may read to you, the one and only request is that all persons give what they can afford, no more, no less.

No one outside any particular home or business house would be justified in calculating what the other person can afford to contribute toward any cause, no matter how worthy such cause might be. Each home, each business house, knows best what it can afford to do. For this reason its individual decision must be the one to govern in such matters. No one should contribute more than he or she can afford merely through false pride. Likewise, all should contribute as liberally as they know they are able to, and on this basis we feel sure that everybody will be satisfied and the money needed will be secured.

Everybody who can help the hospital should do so, and as liberally as possible, keeping in mind, of course, other expenses and contributions, charitable and otherwise, which are upon them in the course of any average year. Everything can't go toward any one cause, and no one is asking that it should. But as much as can be afforded should be contributed to the hospital now, and if this is done we all will feel proud of the effort and satisfied that we have possibly made a little sacrifice here or there for such a worthy cause.

Game Cancelled.

The opening game of baseball for the 1924 season, scheduled to be played last Saturday between Penn State's nine and Juniata College, of Huntingdon, was cancelled, the field being too wet.

COOLIDGE TIDE RISING.

In all parts of the county where preferential primaries are being held, the prevailing sentiment is being expressed for Coolidge for President. Even the great northwest, which cannot always be classed as conservative, is swinging into line for him. Primaries in the middle-west are also revealing a deep sentiment for the President. His nomination at the Cleveland convention is regarded as assured.

The Twenty-third congressional district, of which Centre County is a part, has two candidates for Republican national delegates who are instructed for Coolidge. They are Mrs. Ella J. Mountz, of Clearfield County, and James A. Connelly, of McKean County. A vote for them at the primaries on April 22nd will be a vote for the nomination of Coolidge. On this basis Mrs. Mountz and Mr. Connelly should be, and undoubtedly will be, elected. They merit the active support of the Republicans of Centre County.

USE TO MUCH WATER

Council Takes Steps to Reduce Consumption.

The regular meeting of Town Council was held on Monday evening. Charles F. Schad was present and asked if any definite action had been taken in regard to his request that Beaver street be continued from Ridge to Spring streets. He said that if the street was opened it would cross his lots and, as he was contemplating building, he would like to be informed so as to proceed accordingly. The matter had previously been placed in the street committee, who had taken no action as H. B. Shattuck, borough engineer, has been ill and was unable to go over the proposition.

A number of residents on East Beaver street were present and complained to Council of the bad condition of that street. James Smoyer, one of the number, informed Council that he had a carload of stone which could be used to improve the street if it was wanted. The matter was given to the street committee and borough manager. The residents also reported to Council that there is an inadequate water supply at times and this was referred to the water committee.

A petition signed by a number of residents for opening Burnside street from Allegheny to Blanchard street was received but no action taken. There was also a request from Frank Sasserman for permission from Council for installation of an underground gasoline tank at his residence on Beaver and Hoy row.

Resolutions from the state highway department regarding payment of $17.50 for making temporary repairs on Allegheny and Linn streets and for payment of $15 for repairs on Bishop street, were accepted.

The street committee reported repairs and general routine work.

The water committee reported cleaning of the Big Spring; installation of a water tap at the property of Louis Hill on Bishop street; installation of fire hydrant on Logan street; collection of $20 insurance for damages done to the Phoenix pumping station; collection of $51 from the 1922 water duplicate.

The report of the Keystone Power corporation was read by J. M. Cunningham, of the water committee, as follows:

Amount of water pumped at the Phoenix station, 40,000,000 gallons; water works, 5,000,000 gallons; electric pumps, 25,000,000 gallons—making a total of 68,000,000 gallons per month or a daily average of 2,330,000 gallons. The daily average, this shows, is 467 gallons per person, Mr. Cunningham said, and is far above the average consumption of most other towns and cities. Mr. Berry, of the American Water Works Association, went over the Bellefonte water system, inspecting the reservoir and pumping stations with Mr. Cunningham, while he was a visitor here recently. They computed the amount of water consumption from what they observed and the figures, Mr. Cunningham said, tallied closely with the report from the Keystone Power Corporation. In order to reduce this daily consumption to approximately 225 gallons, the following recommendations were adopted:

That the water committee be instructed to appoint a water inspector and have him make a house to house inspection of all consumers to check up on fixtures and for the purpose of locating leaks in fixtures or in the services lines.

That the inspector be supplied a form of notice to the effect that if leaks are found and not repaired within a reasonable length of time, water will be turned off until repairs are made.

That after the house to house inspection, if the consumption has not been reduced to 225 gallons or less per day, the committee be authorized to have a Pitometer survey made of all the main water pipes to locate leaks and repairs promptly made, and to make a test of the reservoir as well as remove the valves of the two hydraulic pumps; and to have both pumps equipped with revolution counters and keep a record of the water pumped each day, these records to be looked after daily by the borough manager.

That Council draw up and pass a resolution to prohibit use of hopper closets unless the water is furnished by meter measure; also, a resolution to prohibit use of water for cooling purposes unless it is charged to meter rates.

At the same time the inspection is made all persons will be assessed.

The fire and police committee reported receipt of 3 maps of the town showing location of all fire hydrants. One map was for each hose house and one for Council. A recommendation was made that an electric fire alarm, to be in control of the telephone operator and similar to one in the Undine hose house, be installed in the Logan hose house. A contribution of $50 from citizens of Millheim for recent services rendered by the local firemen was also reported.

The special committee reported that John McCoy had offered the borough free use of the ore hole at the school house, east of town, to be used as a public dumping house.

The finance committee reported tax exonerations for 3 years amounting to $188.51 and auditing of the Pruner orphanage fund. Notes amounting to $23,300 were reported for renewal and payment of interest.

Complaints about the unsightliness of a sign on the Diamond was made and a motion was made to have it removed. Officer Henry Bathurst requested that signs forbidding parking of cars be placed in front of the school building on Bishop street and that white lines indicating a crossing from the school to the north side of the street be drawn so that the children could be instructed to use them instead of crossing the street at random, at present dangerous because of motor traffic.

An ordinance regarding disorderly conduct was submitted by Councilman Bradley. The ordinance had been prepared by Burgess Walker and Borough Solicitor Spangler, but it did not satisfy all the Councilmen, an objection being made to some of the designations called disorderly conduct. As a result, action was postponed.

OVER THE COUNTY

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Lambert have returned to their home in Centre Hall after visiting in Florida for the winter. They motored to and from the "Land of Flowers."

Mrs. Mary Williams, of Centre Hall recently purchased 1,000 baby chicks of the White Leghorn variety. She proposes to raise them and engage in the poultry business.

While working in the stone quarries at Centre Hall one day recently, Frank E. Arney became so severely attacked by rheumatism that it was necessary for companions to take him to his home.

Mrs. H. H. Leitzel, of Millheim, recently received a card from her son Lloyd Boob, who stated that he was in New Mexico but expected to leave soon for El Paso, Texas. He has been traveling considerably, only a short time ago being at Denver, Colorado.

Members of the Highway Motor Patrol were busy for a few hours recently at the cross roads at Pleasant Gap. They stopped many drivers and quizzed them. When members of this patrol ask questions it is best to answer them as well you know how and treat them in a civil way, regardless of what you may think of them.

Two hundred tons of crushed stone has been placed on the Nittany mountain road, from the brick road to the top of the mountain.

Bellefonte and Centre Hall postoffices are in the same class now that the baby chick season is on in earnest—they are both "peeping" places. The chicks keep the clerks in tune all day with the monotonous, "peep, peep."

Millheim folks seem to be the first in Centre County to feed on dandelion greens each spring. When the announcement comes along that the spring delicacy of the poor man has been served in that community, then look forward to the near approach of spring.

Centre Hall was keenly disappointed when bids received for the erection of the proposed new High School building were at least 50 per cent more than available funds. The bids were as follows: E. C. Miles, Bellefonte, $22,195; W. S. Williams, Centre Hall, $22,812.44; E. E. Sheffer, Jersey Shore, $24,351; William Kennedy, State College, $30,000. The bids were all rejected. The board is now planning a new building, a drawing of which will be sent to the State Department of Public Instruction at Harrisburg for approval.

Mrs. Belle Curtin Dead.

Mrs. Belle Curtin, one of Bellefonte's best known women, died in the Bellefonte hospital on Sunday night at 11:30 o'clock from infirmities due to her advanced age. She was 86 years old on last December 9th and had been taken to the hospital only recently. Born at Curtin, a daughter of John and Julia Barnhart Curtin, her maiden name was Margery Belle Curtin. Her father was a half-brother of the late Gov. A. G. Curtin. She grew to young womanhood in that village and became the wife of John Irvin Curtin. After their marriage they resided in Bellefonte during their lifetime, excepting for a few years when they lived in Lock Haven. Their union was blessed with two sons: Gregg Curtin, of Bellefonte, who survives, and Roland, who passed away in February, 1913. One brother, John G. Curtin, of Philadelphia, youngest of the family of eight children, also survives. Funeral services were conducted from the home of her son, Gregg, with whom she had resided for many years, on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by her pastor, Rev. E. E. McKelvey, of the Methodist church. Burial was made in the family plot in Union cemetery.

Mrs. Lester D. McClellan Dead.

Mrs. Blanche B. McClellan, wife of Lester D. McClellan, died at the Blair County hospital in Hollidaysburg on last Thursday night from exhaustion. The deceased was a daughter of the late Robert and Mrs. Lavina Strunk and was born in Bellefonte 32 years ago. Surviving are her mother, who resides in Bellefonte; her husband and four children, Earl, Irene, LeRoy and Violet all at home; the following brothers and sisters: Harry and Frank, of State College; Mrs. Emma Kunes, Eagleville; Ray, Tyrone; Mrs. Harry Miller, Mrs. Robert McMullen, John Strunk, Mrs. Walter Scull, Mrs. Curt Taylor and Mrs. Joe Kelleher, Bellefonte. The body was brought to Bellefonte on Saturday and funeral services were conducted on Monday afternoon by Rev. Ambrose M. Schmidt, the deceased having been a member of the Reformed church. Interment was in Union cemetery.

Mrs. Jane Austin Dead.

Mrs. Jane Austin, for many years a highly esteemed resident of Milesburg, died last Thursday morning at the home of her grand-daughter, Mrs. Edward Kane, with whom she had been making her home, from infirmities due to her advanced age. She was a native of Nittany valley, her maiden name having been Jane Wilson, and was 84 years old. Most of her life was spent in Milesburg, however. Her husband, whose name was Benjamin Austin, died about twelve years ago. Surviving are three children: Mrs. Alfred Kline, of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. T. B. Lipton, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Annie Hendershot, of Bellefonte. The deceased was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and took an active interest in the affairs of the community in which she resided. Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon and burial made in Curtin cemetery.

Benner Walker Dead.

Benner Walker died at his home in Oak Hall on Saturday evening from Bright's disease. He had been sick since last fall. He was born at Pine Glen and was aged 62 years, 7 months and 5 days. His parents, the late Jacob and Mary Walker, have been dead a number of years. Surviving are his widow, whose maiden name was Viola White; five children: Frank, of near Coburn; Merrill, of Farmers Mills; Alfred and Kerny, of Oak Hall; Mrs. Mabel Grubb, of Akron, Ohio; the following brothers and sisters: W. S., of Centre Hall; Simon, of Snow Shoe; Jackson, of San Diego, Cal.; Mrs. F. T. Hoover, Pine Glenn; and Mrs. Lucy Lytle, of Ohio. Funeral services were held on Wednesday and burial made at Centre Hall.

Mrs. A. W. Gray Dead.

Mrs. Amanda Waddle Gray, widow of Zane B. Gray, of Tyrone, died at her home on Monday night from heart failure superinduced by pneumonia. Deceased was a member of the Benner family of Revolutionary fame. She was born in Buffalo Run valley 81 years ago, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Benner Waddle. She married Mr. Gray 58 years ago in Buffalo Run valley and after residing there one year they moved to Tyrone where they had resided ever since. Mr. Gray passed away two years ago. Surviving are two half-brothers, Philip Waddle, of Bellefonte, and James B. Waddle, of State College. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon and burial made in Grandview cemetery at Tyrone.

David Richards Dead.

David Richards, a native of Port Matilda and for many years a well known resident of Philipsburg, where he was a teamster, died at his home on Wednesday afternoon of last week from dropsy. Deceased was a son of Thomas and Sarah Matilda Richards and was born at Port Matilda on March 29, 1853. He is survived by his widow, whose maiden name was Miss Addie Butterbaugh; one son, Thomas J., of Brisbin, and one daughter, Mrs. Walter Kohler, of Pittsburgh; also two sisters, Mrs. W. F. Olewine, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Mrs. Dora Moran, of Grand Rapids, Mich. Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon and burial made in Philipsburg cemetery.

George Holt Dead.

George Holt, of Filmore, died on Saturday in the Bellefonte hospital, where he was taken a short time before his death suffering from a stroke of apoplexy. He was unconscious when admitted and remained so to the end. Deceased was 52 years old and is survived by three children: Robert, Elizabeth and George, Jr., all at home; and one brother, William, of Snow Shoe. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon and burial made in the Advent cemetery.

Mrs. William J. Wilson Dead.

Mrs Barbara B. Wilson, wife of William J. Wilson, died at her home in Howard on Monday morning from heart trouble. She was 82 years old. Surviving are her husband and four sons: Harry H., of Lock Haven; David R, of Pittsbargh; Thomas G., of Illinois; Boyd, of Williamsport; one daughter, Mrs. Mary Holter, of Baltimore, Md., one brother and two sisters; Funeral services were held yesterday and burial made at Eagleville cemetery.

Miss Lavada M. Blubaugh Dead.

Miss Lavada May Blubaugh died on Wednesday morning at her home at Honserville from tuberculosis. She was 30 years and 21 days old. Her mother died a number of years ago. Her father, S. O. Blumbaugh, survives. Burial will be made in Shiloh cemetery on Saturday morning, services to be held from the house at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. Daniel Hoy Dead.

Mrs. Daniel Hoy died at the home of her son, Harry Hoy, near Spring Mills on Saturday night from infirmities. She was 86 years old and had resided all her lifetime in Penn's valley. The son mentioned is the only surviving member of her family. Funeral services were held on Wednesday morning and burial made at Millheim.

POSTAL SALARY INCREASE

Committee Members Working to Get Prompt Action.

The joint sub-committee of the house and senate postoffice committees expect at least two weeks more time before they will have whipped into shape a satisfactory salary increase bill for postal employes, in which those employed in postoffices throughout the nation are keenly interested.

While there is unanimous favor for an increase, there is required much care in its preparation if it is to be promptly approved and to be enacted into law at this session. As a result of recent conferences in Washington, D. C. it has been brought to the notice of the committee that any proposal for a flat increase entailing huge extra expenditures without provisions for additional revenue will meet probably with a presidential veto.

Several compromise plans have been submitted to the committee and one of the most favored is a proposal by a postal employe.

He would divide all post offices into three classes. Cities would be grouped according to receipts for the year. Group one would include post offices where the annual receipts were $8,000 to $500,000; group two, $500,000 to $5,000,000, and group three, over $5,000,000. According to this grouping, Bellefonte and State College would come under group one with salaries ranging from $1,400 to $2,000 per year. This would be an increase of about $200 per year for each employe, depending upon length of service.

Rural carriers and other employes, including railway mail clerks, would have their salary based upon the salaries outlined in their districts with the differentials now in effect.

The plan is based on contention that cost of living is higher in large cities and salaries should be arranged accordingly. It seems that every plan suggested, however, has been a bone of contention and the members of the committee are doubtful as to their ability to get the salary increase bill in such shape as to be satisfactory to all.

Yellow River Is Dammed.

Famous Statesman Had an Enormous Appetite

The name of Talleyrand might be added to the list of big eaters. In a letter written from Paris by Catherine Wilmot February 14, 1802, she says: "We dined at the American ambassador's and for the first time saw Talleyrand. At a glance his face is large, pale and flat, like a cream cheese; but on approaching nearer, cunning and rank hypocrisy supplant all other resemblances.

"After dismissing his soup he entered with interest upon his dinner, and certainly such a gourmandeur never was it my fate to behold before. For the length of two hours his mouth was never closed, and even at the intervals of plate changing he filled up crevices by demolishing a dish of raw artichokes in his neighborhood."

Apparently in later life Talleyrand's appetite, though not so keen, was decidedly bizarre. Jules Mary-Lafon describes in his souvenirs an afternoon visit paid Talleyrand in 1832. "I noticed when tea was brought in, Talleyrand did not touch the cakes. All he ate was a slice of bread and butter lavishly sprinkled with pepper."—Kansas City Star.

St. Augustine Like a Page From an Ancient Romance

St. Augustine is so different that it seems incredible that it is but 40 miles distant from Jacksonville, one of the most cosmopolitan cities in the country. One must go back three centuries to appreciate this quaint city where the old and the new meet; in the older portion of the town, the streets are so narrow that pedestrians must move out of the streets to let two cars pass. And so tight is the fit that centuries of passing hubs of wheels have worn grooves three inches deep in the cornerstones of the houses. One Sunday we visited an old Spanish cathedral where we saw a relic said to have miraculous curative powers for the faithful.

It was hard to believe ourselves in America as we sauntered about the ancient streets. Many of the barred windows and doors open directly upon the streets; and one day we saw a horse poke his head through an open window and take an apple off of a table inside.—World Travel Magazine.

Money in Motion Pictures.

The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc., states that there is a practical investment in real estate, studios, equipment and salaries of over $500,000,000, with probably $50,000,000 paid in salaries, $200,000,000 paid annually in production and nearly three-quarters of a billion paid annually for admission, with an equal turnover in the business of your $1,000,000,000.

STRASSBURGER MAKING HOT DELEGATE FIGHT

State-Wide Campaign, With Coolidge Pledge, Arouses Keen Interest of Republicans

The campaign of Ralph Beaver Strassburger, Norristown publisher, for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention is now in full swing in every section of the State. In nearly all the larger cities headquarters have been established and voters generally are keenly interested in the progress of the fight.

RALPH BEAVER STRASSBURGER

Mr. Strassburger, who drew first place on the delegate-at-large portion of the ballot, is campaigning chiefly on the basis of a rock-ribbed pledge to support President Coolidge for the nomination at the Cleveland convention. Since announcing his candidacy he has frequently referred to the nation-wide demand that Mr. Coolidge be retained in the White House. He believes that Pennsylvania, the strongest Republican state in the Union, shares the opinion of the rest of the country in this respect.

The state-wide committee directing the Strassburger campaign is headed by Frank B. McClain, former Lieutenant Governor, of Lancaster. Senator Horace W. Schantz, of Allentown, is vice-chairman, and former Mayor William T. Ramsey, of Chester, Treasurer.

Mr. Strassburger is a native Pennsylvanian, having been born in Montgomery county. As publisher of the Norristown Times Herald he enjoys a wide acquaintance among the newspaper fraternity. He is not only a publisher, but is also interested in many other enterprises. Mr. Strassburger has always taken an active interest in politics and has been a strict party man since the day he cast his first vote.

Snap Shots from Snow Shoe — and — Krumbs from Klarence

A large crowd of appreciative Snow Shoe people gathered in the Sunday School room of the Methodist church on Monday evening to welcome the new minister, Rev. Herkheimer, formerly of Dillsburg, York County. A musical program, par excellence, which was delightfully rendered along with a number of appropriate and inspiring remarks by members of the official board of the church were pleasing features of the reception. The program was as follows: Opening address: C. Cramer, "Ave Maria," sung by Mrs. Pat Moore, piano and cornet accompaniment; remarks by James Irvin; solo, "My Indiana Moon," by Marian Whiteman; piano solo by Myrtle Bohn; remarks, H. W. Raybert; piano duet, Mrs. A. B. Budinger and daughter Patsy; duet, "Weeping Willow Lane," Mrs. Pat Moore and Mrs. Laura Banks; piano duet, Masters Thomas and Arthur Budinger, two small tots by their excellence of performance literally brought down the house; remarks by pastor, who has already by his fearless but winsome personality captured the allegiance and affection of his flock; piano solo by little Miss Helen Moore, who showed unusual ability; piano solo by Mrs. A. B. Budinger, whose name stands for harmony and beautiful musical compositions; singing of ye olden time songs by entire audience, followed by delicious refreshments. The evening closed with expressions of best wishes for the pastor's success in his new field of labor.

Sad news of the death of a sister-in-law residing in Indiana, Pa., was received this week by Mrs. Charles Weaver.

Rev. Ford, who is the candidate for the pastorate of the local Presbyterian church, will fill the pulpit next Sunday morning. This minister comes from Auburn, N. Y., and is highly recommended for the vacancy here. We hope he and the congregation will be mutually pleased to the extent that we acquire a resident pastor.

Miss Bertha Shank, a student of Ebensburg, returned to that place to resume her school work on last Sunday.

Miss Justina Lorah departed last week for Williamsport, expecting to make her home with Mrs. William Brennan, nee O'Brien.

We cannot omit from our items highest praise for the home talent play, "The Little Clodhopper," presented by the Snow Shoe High School last Friday evening in the Pastime theatre. The coach deserves much credit for the unusual ability shown by the students. Plans are to present the same play in Milesburg and it should be well received there. Pathos, mingled with wholesome humor and scenes of home life, make the play very entertaining.

MISSION WORKERS MEET

Inspiration at Services in Local Presbyterian Church.

There was much inspiration in the services held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Huntingdon in the Bellefonte Presbyterian church last week on Tuesday and Wednesday. Mrs. Mary W. Newlin, of Franklinville, presided. Mrs. James H. Potter, of Bellefonte, welcomed the delegates and Mrs. F. M. Emerick, of Mifflintown, responded. Miss Gertrude Schultz, one ofthe secretaries foreign missions; Mrs. Homer Campbell, a recent worker in Utah and Arizona; Miss Eva Jane Smith, one of the foreign missionaries to the Punjal district in India; Mrs. Bion Williams, of East McKeesport, and Miss Catherine Wood, of Lewistown, were principal speakers at the different sessions.

Reports were highly encouraging. The treasurer for foreign missions reported total gifts, $13,000; treasurer for home reports, $8,459; overseas hospital supplies, a "labor of love," value $1,160 for Miraj, India. This is one of the most attractive branches of missionary service.

The committee of courtesies—Mrs. A. S. Brown, Mrs. H. D. Fleming, Mrs. T. Stacy Capers and Mrs. Horace Smith.

Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. Mary W. Newlin, Franklinville, president; Mrs. Horace R. Smith, Altoona, associate president; Mrs. H. H. Stiles and Mrs. Elizabeth Findley, Altoona; Mrs. Samuel Martin, State College; Mrs. John T. Scott, Philipsburg; Mrs. O. H. Travis, Altoona; Mrs. Samuel Barber, Bellwood; Mrs. R. L. Rates and Returns

The millions of dollars' worth of telephone property in Pennsylvania represent investment savings of the people of Pennsylvania. A hundred and twenty-five thousand such investors live in this State.

In putting their money into the telephone business they had faith that the people of Pennsylvania would pay reasonable rates for good telephone service.

As the telephone business expands it is necessary to go to this same public and ask them to invest additional funds. We can secure that money only so long as rates for telephone service are such as to allow an adequate return on the money invested.

The present rates do not so allow.

That's why we are asking the very same public at this time for a moderate increase.

In other words, we are asking "of the public, for the public."

The Wild and Woolly Sweetheart

By DUFORD JENNE

(©, 1924, McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Now, look here, Dorthy," her father said with a sudden contraction of his thick eyebrows, "out there against his plains and mountains your western hero may have looked all right, but get him here in the East and facing a finger-bowl and he wouldn't know what to do with it; he'd probably drink the water—"

"But I don't see—"

"I know you don't, honey, but I do. Just now, you won't think of these things; so your dad must. Anyway, mother and I are going to invite him here, and we're all going to get a good chance to look him over."

Dorthy's feelings were mixed when she left her father. To see Maylan again—she had been plotting and scheming herself, but she had thought more of going out to his father's ranch again rather than having him visit her aristocratic home in the East. Now he was to come—big, bronzed, handsome—what did she care if they made fun of him behind his or her back?

But her mood of quiet happiness in the news of his coming was marred by the attitude of her friends. She was not aware that she was easily teased; she did know that she was given some very unhappy moments.

"So the wild and woolly one is coming, is he, Dora?" one of her friends asked. "I am crazy to see him. Is he bow-legged from riding so much? Do you suppose we could get him to give an Indian war whoop?"

"He's not bow-legged! You people will drive me wild! I want you to know he went to college for one year, and then had to go back to the ranch because his father was injured, and he's got as big a library there as any of us—bigger!" she argued.

But even as she rose in his defense little quaking fears began to disturb her. He probably would appear uncouth among them, and he would be at a loss as to many of the proper ways of doing this and that. At dinner he would probably eat his salad with his soup spoon. There would be embarrassing moments for both of them, and she could not bear to think of the agony of such moments for him especially.

"I don't care," she tried to convince herself. "He's a real man, and I love him."

But she knew her father's iron will. If he took a dislike to Maylan, the situation would be desperate: for somehow she felt that Maylan would never marry her, if her father objected to him on the grounds that he was not equal in blood and race to her. In Maylan's dark-brown eyes there was the look of men who admit no such superiority—the look of men used to long distances, the infinite of starry nights on the plains.

So into her inmost heart crept the shadows of an unhappiness that she could not drive away, but her thoughts were more of him than of herself.

Although the days had a bright thread running through them in her thought of seeing him again, she felt as if she would like to prevent his being made an object of fun in a quiet way on the part of her friends. So she wrote a long letter, warning him of what was coming, and advising him just what to do in preparation.

Just as she was about to mail it the full realization of what it would mean to him dawned upon her.

"Gracious, what a letter to write to a man a girl loves. Why, I'm showing him that I don't think he is worthy to mingle with my own people!" she told herself, and the letter came to an abrupt end in the waste-basket.

It almost seemed to her that her father was deliberately planning to make things difficult for Maylan. The gathering in his honor was to bring the blue blood of the suburban countryside—people who would be sure to note and enjoy blunders that a somewhat uncultured man would make.

The night of Maylan's coming drew near. Her father was to bring him from the city with him. They would motor out together.

She could hardly keep still as she waited for the sound of the car. She was often at the window—so often that her younger brother broke in with: "Sis, what's the matter with you? Gee, he must be some chap for you to act this way!"

When he did come and she went to greet him, her first wild desire was to throw herself into his arms, but she knew her father did not think "things had gone that far." So she checked herself and in that checking she had time to notice how plainly he was dressed. He seemed uncomfortable. Only his eyes were calm and serene—and Dorthy knew she loved what lay behind the calm eyes. Her father led him away to his room.

She dressed for the evening in a simple white dress that she knew would please him, threaded into her dark hair a white rose, and went down from her room. The guests were arriving, and she found herself busy greeting them.

Suddenly a stir among them made her turn. Down the broad stairs came two men: one white-haired, distinguished; and beside him, dark of hair and eye, serene, in evening dress clothes that fitted him perfectly, another, powerful of form and poised of bearing. Dorthy caught her breath as she saw him—Maylan, her lover!

Soon she was introducing him. He met her friends easily, with just a trace of retiring shyness, but somehow they seemed to look less fearsome in front of him. Some suggestion about him of tremendous strength made him a significant figure.

Then, later, through all the intricate courses of the elaborate dinner, he went without blunder. Under her gentle prodding and the challenge of others, he told stories from the lore of his plains and mountains, telling the tales so fascinatingly that the room was often still of every other sound than his voice.

"I might have known that with his common sense and intelligence he would be at home anywhere," she thought to herself as she watched him and listened.

The last kink unraveled in the situation when she heard her father, as she was going, later on, through one of the halls, say with a new hearty note in his voice:

"Man, you didn't need the coaching I have been giving you the last three days. You made too much of the social stunt and of this game. As for Dorthy, ask her any time! If she doesn't say the right word, I'll spank her!"

Dorthy, her heart throbbing, slipped into the hall. "You won't have to spank me, dad, but what do you mean—'coaching' Maylan?"

Her father started. "Great Scott! you youngster, you listening? 'Coaching'—well, lad, here's the girl who is to be your wife! Fix it up with her! I'm off!"

Maylan smiled his quick boyish smile. "Little girl, I was afraid I might make some break, so was your father; so we put in three days together before I came up. You see, I didn't want you to be ashamed of me."

"My dear!" she said softly, then—"Come, let's run up to father's den, and talk things—lots of things!"

Where Bees of Various Lands Get Their Honey

When strangers go to Trebizond, a city in Asiatic Turkey, on the Black sea, the inhabitants of the locality warn them against gathering honey from the trees in the country. It seems that the bees collect their honey from poisonous flowers, and to eat it is dangerous.

In the United States, the greater part of the honey comes from the West. The bees steal the pollen of the sweet clover, white sage and other mountain flowers and store it in combs they make, or, if they belong to a bee farm, they deposit the golden sirup in combs of beeswax placed in the hives by the farmer.

Honey in the Central states is made from white clover, Spanish needle and heartsease. In the South, cotton, mesquite, horsemint and sweet clover are prey for the busy insect. In the various sections of North America the bee haunts also orange blossoms, asters and basswood.

In the East and North and in Canada buckwheat or white clover is usually the mecca of the bees.

The bees of Scotland gather their honey from the heather. Narbonne honey, of France, is like our white clover honey. Mt. Hymettus in Greece, near Athens, is celebrated in masterpieces of prose and verse for its fine honey, which comes from the wild thyme.

Lip Reading Diverting

"New Yorkers do not realize how they talk to themselves," remarked a visitor from out of town, says the New York Sun and Globe. "I am sure that two out of every five men have this habit more or less. They are rarely audible, but their lips move evidently in time to their thoughts.

"The habit comes, no doubt, from the terrific nervous pressure under which New Yorkers live. Their minds are evidently so intent on some subject that they unconsciously repeat some formula or argue with themselves. Watch any row of people in the subway and you will see many of them talking away at great rate.

"Any one who has a knowledge of lip reading will find the habit most diverting. One man whose lips were silently but steadily moving I discovered was merely adding up figures. A sour individual was swearing. My great discovery was to find a stern-looking old gentleman with a decidedly sanctimonious countenance repeating a long formula which contained mention of quarts, degrees of temperature and processes of distillation."

Robber Caste of India

The name given to the robber caste men in India is "kullars," says the Detroit News. They are descendants of men similar to those who robbed the traveler on his way from Jerusalem to Jerico spoken of in the parable of the good samaritan.

A kullar's father and grandfather have robbed, why should he not do the same? Isn't it the custom of India for the son to follow the profession of his father? Thus he argues in the daytime and at night he greases his almost naked body and goes forth with his companions on mischief bent.

His ways are simple. Here is a widow reputed to have some good ornaments. The kullars break a hole in the mud wall of the house and after entering they terrorize the inmates and steal whatever may be of value.

"AGIN" THE LAW

A woman engaged a new maid, with whose appearance and manner she was greatly pleased. When the terms had been agreed upon the mistress said:

"Now, my last maid was much too friendly with the policemen. I hope I can trust you?"

"Indeed, you can, ma'am," replied the new maid. "I can't bear policemen. I was brought up to hate the very sight of them. You see, my father was a burglar."

Another Man.

The hobo had asked the hard-faced woman for something to eat. "Yes," she replied. "I'll fix you some supper if you'll saw and split some wood, sweep off the walk, fix that hole in the fence, tidy up the barnyard, and burn that rubbish piled up at the cellar door."

"Lady," said the hobo as he started away, "I'm only a hobo; I ain't your husband!"

It is better to be a steady, reliable plodder than to be a brilliant but erratic and undependable genius. The plodder wears better and in the end accomplishes more and better work. True, it may take him longer to do it than his brilliant brother, but the work is likely to be well done.—American Cookery.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER

A nice meat dish which is especially tasty is prepared from a thin slice of tender lean veal as follows:

Veal Birds.—Pound a slice of firm but tender veal with a wooden potato masher until very thin, then cut into small pieces, heap on each a spoonful or more of seasoned bread crumbs, adding a bit of minced salt pork and a little scraped onion. Roll up and skewer with toothpicks then put into a hot frying pan with a little salt pork or suet and brown well all over, turning until evenly browned; dredge with flour so that there will be enough to thicken the gravy. Season the meat with salt and pepper, place in a baking dish and add enough milk to almost cover and bake until the milk is thick. Serve the birds with the thickened gravy poured around them.

Brown Mange.—Soak half a box of gelatin in a cupful of milk for three hours. Stir into it a scant cupful of granulated sugar and pour upon it one quart of scalding milk. Add one-half cake of grated chocolate, wet to a paste with milk. Stir over the fire just long enough to dissolve the gelatin and melt the chocolate but do not let the milk boil. Pour this mixture gradually upon the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs. Turn into a bowl and set in a pan of chipped ice; beat the contents until it begins to stiffen like jelly. Turn into a glass bowl and set on ice to stiffen. Serve in the bowl, dotted with spoonfuls of whipped cream.

Spanish Rice.—Boil one cupful of rice until tender but not broken. Drain and set in the oven in a colander. Fry two medium-sized onions sliced very thin, in butter; put them and two chopped green peppers with the rice and stir in two cupfuls of stewed tomatoes, tossing lightly not to break the rice. Turn into a buttered baking dish, season to taste with salt and pepper, cover with buttered crumbs and brown.

The ill-timed truth we might have kept—
Who knows how sharp it pierced and stung?
The word we had not sense to say—
Who knows how grandly it had rung?

EARLY SPRINGTIME DESSERTS

To stimulate the appetite and furnish mineral matter and acids which the system craves and needs at this season, fresh fruits and vegetables are invaluable.

Banana Dessert.—Heat a pint of milk in a double boiler until scalding hot. Add two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch which has been mixed with one-fourth of a teaspoonful of salt, and one-third of a cupful of sugar, then add one-fourth of a cupful of cream. Cook thirty minutes, stirring occasionally. Add the well-beaten yolks of two eggs, return to the boiler and stir, cooking until smooth and thick, using care not to over cook and curdle the eggs. Add a teaspoonful of orange extract and put in a cool place.

Cut sponge cake into slices and arrange in a glass dish in layers with sliced bananas, having a bottom layer of cake and the top of bananas. Pour over the chilled custard, cover with a meringue, using the egg whites and two tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Flavor with lemon extract and heap spoonfuls on top of the custard.

Cherry Sherbet.—Take one cupful of stoned cherries, two and one-half cupfuls of water, one-half cupful of sugar and one tablespoonful of softened gelatin. Heat the cherries, water and sugar, add the gelatin, cool and add the juice of an orange. Freeze to a mush and pack in salt and ice. Serve in sherbet glasses.

Pineapple Rice.—Cook one-half cupful of rice in two quarts of boiling salted water until tender, but unbroken. Drain, blanch with cold water. Cut two cupfuls of sliced pineapple into small pieces. Beat one cupful of heavy cream until stiff. Fold the cream and pineapple into the rice. Serve in sherbet cups with bits of cherries for a garnish or fresh, sugared strawberries.

Plain boiled rice to which a little pineapple juice and gelatin has been added and the rice molded, makes a delightful dessert with a crushed strawberry sauce.

Mississippi Flows Uphill?

The basis for the statement that the Mississippi river flows "uphill" is the idea that "up" is away from the center of the earth and "down" is toward it. If these were the only meanings of the words, then it might be said that the Mississippi river flows uphill, for the polar radius of the earth is over thirteen miles shorter than the equatorial radius and as the Mississippi river extends over 18 degrees of latitude, its proper proportion of this difference amounts to more than four miles, the river's source being that much nearer the center of the earth than its mouth.

When Live Wires Don't Kill

The biological survey says that small birds are seldom killed by alighting on a trolley wire, even though it carries a heavy current of electricity. This is because there is not a complete circuit. If a larger bird were to alight on a wire, and one of his wings touch another wire, it would be apt to cause death. Eagles have often been killed in this way.

A slide rule is an instrument composed of various scales the positions of which in relation to each other may be altered. It is used for the rapid performance of certain arithmetical operations. The scales may be engraved on straight rods, disks, or on the surface of a cylinder.

Ghostly, in Fact.

Mrs. Youngbrow (very inexperienced)—And I'd like some lard, please.

Clerk—Pail?

Mrs. Youngbride—Why—er—it's all pale, isn't it?

From Tip to Tip.

"Yes, sir, when this eagle was measured it was 15 feet from tip to tip."

"Now I understand the popularity of the word eagle as a name for hotels."

OILY TONGUE

"How plausibly these gasoline men talk about the price!"

"Yes; they've got the oily tongues, I'll say."

Pardons.

The wicked elf will go his way
In paths of flowery ease
If when he's caught he need but say
Politely, "Pardon me."

As Others See Her.

Miss Oldsmith—But, doctor, don't you think these glasses make me look lots older?

The Oculist—No, I don't think so, unless you look in the mirror.

"Thank God for tea! What would the world do without tea? How did it exist? I am glad I was not born before tea."

"The gentle fair on nervous tea relies,
While gay good nature sparkles in her eyes."

EVENING TEA

The serving of tea gives one the opportunity for social intercourse and rare sociability, excuse enough for a cup of the beverage "which cheers but not inebriates." On Sunday night our New England ancestors liked a bowl of mush and creamy milk, with a bit of salt codfish for an appetizer. For those of their sturdy and less practical descendants a more palatable supper to them may be found in the following suggestions:

Oysters cooked in the chafing dish are a well-liked supper dish. They may be served as a stew, in a white sauce on toast, or fried. When fried, dip them in milk, then in seasoned crumbs and fry in butter to give them just the right flavor. Be sure they are well-cooked through, but not overdone and tough; either condition is most undesirable.

The salad has now come to have such an important place in the luncheon, dinner or supper menu that no such meal seems complete unless provided with some kind of a salad. Even in the cold climates lettuce may be found at a reasonable price. If used, a leaf or two of head lettuce lasts quite a while in a small family. Place it in an earthen jar with just the moisture left after giving it a good washing, cover closely and keep in a cool place; it will be crisp and fresh to the last leaf. Parsley, too, washed and put into a pint or quart jar, sealed and kept where it is cool will keep for two weeks. It may need a dipping into water once during the time to revive it, but the moisture keeps it fresh and green.

If there are little people to have supper with the grownups, drop a little sugar sirup on animal crackers and press them in the center of a salted wafer in a standing position. They will soon be firm. The children like these and they are better for them than cake, especially of the rich varieties.

Yes, the task that is given to each man, no other can do;
So the errand is waiting; it has waited for ages for you;
And now you appear and the Hushed Ones are turning their gaze
To see what you do with your chance in the chamber of days.

GOOD THINGS TO EAT

A salad is always welcome and thrice welcome if offering something new and appetizing.

Dutch Salad.—Flake one small herring and cut into fine pieces, mix with one cupful each of cooked, minced ham and shredded fowl or veal. Cut into dice the same quantity of cooked beets, a cucumber pickle and one pint of boiled potatoes with one small onion, minced. Dress with three tablespoonfuls of tarragon vinegar and eight of olive oil, one-half teaspoonful of French mustard and salt and pepper to taste. Sprinkle with chopped hard-cooked egg, capers and stoned olives.

Uncooked Mincemeat.—Take two cupfuls of chopped cooked beef, five cupfuls of chopped apples, three cupfuls of raisins, one cupful of molasses, four cupfuls of brown sugar, one cupful each of vinegar and cider, one cupful of chopped suet, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, a tablespoonful of cloves and a grating of nutmeg. This makes a gallon and will keep if kept in a cold place until used. It may be cooked and canned and will then keep indefinitely.

Orange Gelatin Cake.—Bake a sponge cake in two layer pans. Prepare jelly of gelatin and orange juice or use the prepared kind, molding it in one of the layer tins. When stiff place on one layer and cover with another of cake. Frost with orange icing.

Prune Tapioca.—Wash fifteen large prunes and put to soak overnight. Take three-fourths of a cupful of tapioca and soak in twice the amount of water. Stone and chop the prunes. Add enough water to the liquid to make four and one-half cupfuls. Bring to boil with the prunes, tapioca, one cupful of sugar and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cook in a double boiler for forty minutes. Add flavoring to taste and one-half cupful of pecan meats. Serve cold with cream.

Just remember today is the day you worried about yesterday and the day before yesterday; and today isn't what you expected. Now this is the truth—the thing you are worrying about will not happen tomorrow. So cheer up and live today.—Hunter.

SOMETHING ABOUT OLIVES

A ripe olive yields twice as much heat or twice as many calories as the green olive and is nearly equivalent to bread which we consider the staff of life. The ripe olive like the green has to be eaten often before it is well liked by most people. Those who become accustomed to it like it far better than the green; it is more easily digested and much richer in food value.

Ripe olives because of their flavor, which is very delicate, are especially good in meat sauces and dressings and made dishes.

A half-dozen ripe olives chopped fine and added to the giblet sauce to serve with chicken or turkey are especially nice.

Olive Sauce.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter and add a tablespoonful of chopped chives; cook until softened. Remove the chives, add five tablespoonfuls of flour and one-half teaspoonful of salt with a few dashes of cayenne pepper. Add two cupfuls of brown stock and cook until thick. Cut one dozen ripe olives from their pits, cover with boiling water for five minutes, then add the sauce. Serve with meat or game.

Hawaiian Salad.—Place a slice of pineapple on a leaf of lettuce. On it arrange alternate sections of orange and grapefruit, between each section a piece of ripe olive. In the center of the pineapple place a ball of cream cheese seasoned with mayonnaise to hold it together. Sprinkle with paprika and serve with French dressing. The pineapple juice may be used in place of vinegar for the dressing. Pass mayonnaise for the salad.

Olive Salad.—Take four tart apples, one bunch of celery, one-half cupful of walnut meats and three-fourths of a cupful of pitted ripe olives. Cut the celery, apples and olives into julienne strips, add the nuts, moisten with mayonnaise and serve in a nest of lettuce.

Today is ours, what do we fear?
Today is ours; we have it here;
Let's treat it kindly, that it may
Wish at least with us to stay.
Let's banish business, banish sorrow;
To the gods belongs tomorrow.

WHAT TO SERVE FOR DINNER

Chicken served in the ordinary manner may become monotonous; try the following:

Chicken en Casserole. — Disjoint a chicken and roll in seasoned flour, then saute in hot fat until well browned on all sides. Cut a carrot into even slices, add one onion for each person served. Cut out a dozen potato balls. Cook the vegetables in a little fat until they are slightly browned, then arrange the chicken and vegetables in the casserole. With the giblets, neck and wing tips make a broth by covering with cold water, pour this while hot over the chicken, season well, cover and let cook in the oven until the chicken is tender. It will take about two hours. The broth should be prepared before the chicken is ready to cook.

Oysters With Macaroni. — Cook three-fourths of a cupful of macaroni broken into inch pieces until tender. Scald one pint of oysters. Put a layer of buttered crumbs, one of cooked macaroni and a layer of cheese, using a half cupful of crumbs and three-fourths of a cupful of cheese, salt, pepper and the oyster liquor. Repeat until all the ingredients are used. Cover with buttered crumbs. Bake thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

Baked Eggplant.—Pare, cut into cubes and cook until tender in boiling water a small eggplant. It will take from ten to twenty minutes. Drain in a colander. For three cupfuls of cubes, chop fine one small onion, add one-half cupful of mushrooms and cook in two tablespoonfuls of fat; then add the eggplant, a cupful of tomato strained, bread crumbs, parsley and salt and paprika. Place in a baking dish, cover with buttered crumbs and bake until brown.

Tea Cakes.—Bake a plain cake recipe in gem pans. Cut open, scoop out the centers and fill with sweetened and flavored whipped cream. Fruit may be used in place of the cream if desired. Top with whipped cream.

C. M. Muffly, of Howard, transacted business in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. Howard Bartley visited during the week-end with her daughter in Altoona.

Mrs. M. A. Kirk visited with friends and relatives in Altoona during the week-end.

Mrs. Sarah Meese, of Julian, came to Bellefonte on Monday to visit with Mrs. Cora Rice.

Miss Gertrude Dell, of Clearfield, was a guest during the weekend of Miss Catherine Allison.

Mrs. Bess Reish, who makes her home with Mrs. Sallie Hayes, went to Williamsport on Monday to visit for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. I. K. Slisher, of Philadelphia, were guests during the weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Mordecai Miller, at their home south of town.

John Stover went to Akron, O., last Thursday to visit with his brother, Curtin Stover, and incidentally to look for a good job in one of the large tire manufacturing plants in that city.

Miss Margaret Stewart, who had been visiting for several weeks in Hagerstown, Md., with her sister, Mrs. Mary Miller, was an arrival home this week. Enroute to Bellefonte she visited with friends at Huntingdon.

A round and square dance will be held in the Logan Hose House next Wednesday evening under auspices of the Protected Home Circle. Good music is assured. Admission, men 50 cents and ladies 15 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. James Craig and little son, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hughes and Miss Daisy Graham, of the Academy, motored to Pittsburgh on Monday morning, expecting to return during the week-end.

The annual Easter flower show and sale will be conducted this year by the Y. W. C. A. girls at the Y. M. C. A. There will be nearly 1,000 pots of flowers. It is expected the car will arrive on Wednesday afternoon.

During the weekend J. O. Heverly moved his auto accessories and equipment into the corner room of his new business block on Allegheny St. from the adjoining store room where he had been doing business a greater part of the past year.

Thomas Fleming, oldest shoemaker and cobbler in Bellefonte, this week moved from the room on the second floor of the Bush Arcade building into the Rine room on West High St., formerly occupied for many years by Torsell's shoe repair shop.

Mordecai Miller last week moved his bottling works equipment to his own property along the state highway south of Bellefonte, where he will continue in the bottling business. He had been bottling soft drinks at the rooms in the rear of the Bush Arcade for a number of years.

David Barlet, formerly chief clerk in the Pennsylvania Railroad Co. freight office here, on Monday began his new duties as agent at the Pennsylvania railroad station at Beech Creek, which carries with it a nice increase in salary. Harry Smith succeeds David Barlet as chief clerk. Mr. Smith's place has not been filled.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. I. Purnell, on East Curtin St., was the scene of a merry party on Saturday afternoon when 26 friends of their daughter, little Miss Madeline, gathered in honor of her 6th birthday anniversary. Miss Madeline received a number of pretty gifts. Refreshments were served and games played for several hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Eisenhauer and children went to Beavertown, Snyder County, on Saturday, to visit over Sunday with Mrs. Eisenhauer's parents. Mr. Eisenhauer returned to Bellefonte on Sunday afternoon to be on hand at the freight station on Monday morning, where he is one of the efficient clerks. Mrs. Eisenhauer and the children remained until Tuesday, returning in time to be here for the K. G. E. banquet on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cook and daughter, Miss Margaret, returned home last Thursday after spending several months at Manitou, Colorado, with the former's son, James B. Cook. Mr. Cook has nothing but praise for the climate in Colorado and has the proof right with him, his face radiating good health. He said that there had been little severe winter weather, the month of March being worse than the previous months, and that while his son is finding much in health he will remain in Colorado for some time.

Mrs. A. B. Cromer, better recalled by her many friends here as Miss Eva Crissman, was an arrival in the home town last Thursday to visit several weeks. With her husband she has just returned to the United States after spending about two years in the Bermuda Islands and they expect to be at Cleveland, Ohio, the next six months after which they will quite likely go to Japan. Mr. Cromer is manager of construction for a large New York concern and his work takes him from place to place. The contract in Bermuda was one of the largest he had charge of and was completed with great success.

Mrs. Thomas King Morris, of Pittsburgh, has been visiting at her old home here with her sisters, the Misses Meek.

The Catholic Daughters of America will hold a bake sale at the City Cash Grocery on Allegheny St. on Saturday. The sale starts at 10 o'clock.

Judge Henry C. Quigley went to Philadelphia on Monday to submit to former Centre Countians now residing there the importance of the $100,000 drive for the hospital.

Both the Logan and Undine fire companies were called out on Saturday afternoon for a flue fire at the residence on West Beaver street, occupied by Mrs. Nathan Baughman. No damage was done.

Mrs. George A. Miller announces that she will have her regular sale of Easter flowers at Miller's hardware store beginning April 17th. She will have on display the choicest flowers of the season. 2t

Comer Shope, of Howard, was a Bellefonte visitor last Saturday. While he had a number of matters to attend to during his brief visit, one of the most pressing was a trip to the dentist's office to bid a glad farewell to a troublesome tooth.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gherrity moved this week into apartments in the Heverly block, over the store room which will be occupied by Miss Jennie Morgan. Miss Verna Chambers will occupy the third floor apartments in this part of the building.

Joseph L. Carpeneto, formerly in the Carpeneto store here, who has been residing in Brooklyn, N. Y., was a visitor in Bellefonte this week with relatives and friends. Mr. Carpeneto arrived on Tuesday morning, expecting to remain several days.

Charley Watson, of Clarence, transacted business in Bellefonte on Monday. He stated that the hard rains of last Sunday had beaten down the mud on the mountain roads considerably, putting them in fairly good shape for the first time in several months.

Out-of-town friends here for the funeral of Mrs. Jane Austin on Saturday afternoon included Mrs. William Austin, of Sunbury, and daughter, Mrs. Catherine Gross, of Northumberland; Mrs. John Laurie, of Tyrone; Mrs. Erba Stevens and Mrs. Harry E. Austin and son, of Altoona.

Mrs. R. H. Grove has been quite ill at her home on Reynolds Ave., but is reported better the past few days. Her sister, Miss Susan Shope, who is taking a correspondence course in nursing from a Philadelphia hospital and has engaged in practical nursing, has been caring for her.

W. Cordes Snyder, who has been managing a large coal operation at Karthaus for the last few months, was a business visitor in Bellefonte for a few hours on Monday. He will remove from Karthaus to Hollidaysburg during the next few weeks and become identified with the Lloyd Construction Co., of Altoona.

Benjamin Wagner and family moved here last week from Hershey and are occupying the Shoemaker house on West High street. Their goods were brought here in a big Hershey moving van, one of the largest ever in town. Mr. Wagner took charge this week of the J. D. Sourbeck confectionery store which he purchased.

Methodist Episcopal—The pastor will speak at 10:45 on "The Coming World Triumph of Christ," and at 7:30, "Christ and the Way-side Fig Tree." Sunday school, 9:30; Juniors 2:30; Epworth League and teen agers, 6:30; Tuesday night class; Wednesday, a study in teacher training. Passion week services will be held every night except Saturday at 7:30. E. E. McKelvey, pastor.

Friends here of Mrs. Anna B. Kelley, late of Philadelphia, received announcement this week of her death on Sunday evening. She was a frequent visitor in Bellefonte and quite well known to a number of our readers. The remains were taken to Lewisburg for burial on Wednesday. Mrs. Edwin F. Garman, of Bellefonte; Al and Robert Garman, of Tyrone, were among those who attended the funeral.

Ralph Hartsock, of Julian, was a business visitor in town on Tuesday. His face suggested that he had recently been involved in some kind of a riot. It developed that while out in the mountains cutting props on Monday he dislodged a sapling which struck him a wicked blow on the face. Ralph said that he was not put down for the count, but that he was treated to a wonderful display of all the stars in the heavens, and then some.

St. John's Reformed church—Ambrose M. Schmidt, D. D. minister. Palm Sunday morning at 10:45 confirmation and reception of members. Sermon, "Follow Thou Me." Palm Sunday music. Evening service at 7:30, sermon, "The Anointing at Bethany." Services every evening during Holy Week at 7:30. The following clergymen will assist. Monday evening—Rev. Wilson P. Ard; Tuesday evening—Rev. Reed O. Steely; Thursday evening—Rev. Malcolm DePui Maynard. The pastor will give the Wednesday evening and the two Good Friday addresses. The Good Friday services will be held from 2 to 3 p. m. "The Seven Words of the Cross." Preparatory services 7:30 p. m. "It is Finished." Sunday school, 9:30; Union C. E. 6:45.

Women of the United Brethren church will hold a bake sale in the Oriole store on Saturday, April 19.

Jacob Shirk on Saturday purchased from the heirs of the late Samuel Rice the dwelling house and property on Mill St., just south of J. C. Jodon's store.

Willard Abt has accepted a position in the shoe department of the John Eberhart store at Punxsutawney, and will move his family to that place in the near future.

Don't neglect that cough. Wenck's Glycerole of Tar and Wild Cherry will give relief, without harmful dope or alcohol. 25 and 50 cents, all Druggists and Dealers

Mrs. Gregg Curtin, whose husband's mother died in the hospital on Sunday night, was called to Philadelphia on Monday, her mother being in a critical condition.

Edmund Folmer Wagner is the name given the first child of Mr. and Mrs. Ned F. Wagner, of Watsontown, the mother being better recalled as Miss Louise Brachbill, daughter of our townsman, W. R. Brachbill. The babe was born on Sunday.

Frank J. Wetzler, of Milesburg, has greatly improved his undertaking and embalming establishment at that place, planning to add new equipment in the next week or two that will make his place one of the most modern of its kind in Central Pennsylvania.

Have you ever met Mrs. Wiggs?—then meet her double, Mrs. Tubbs, appearing in "Mrs. Tubbs, of Shantytown." Presented by a cast from Crystal Spring Rebekah Lodge, No. 25, in I. O. O. Hall, on Wednesday evening, April 30, at 8:15 o'clock. Proceeds for hospital fund.

During the absence of Rev. Reed O. Steely, the Evangelical church pulpit was filled on Sunday morning by Mrs. Steely and in the evening by Rev. M. C. Piper, of Milesburg. Rev. Steely went to Indianapolis, Ind., during the week-end to take William Johnstonbaugh to a hospital for treatment. Mr. Johnstonbaugh has not been in good health for some time.

Robert Walker, general manager at the Chemical Lime Co. plant, was painfully injured on the face a few days ago. A wire cable attached to stone cars was suddenly released and struck him with such force as to hurl him a distance of eight feet. Robert is such a hustler that he has been right on the job, regardless of injuries which would have put lots of fellows on the bench for a month.

Announcement was made in Williamsport last Saturday by Mrs. Jennie Heilhecker, of that city, of the engagement of her daughter, Miss Grace Katheryn, to Mahlon Gilbert Eberhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Eberhart, of Bellefonte. The wedding will take place in Bellefonte. Fourteen guests were entertained at dinner at the Heilhecker home, at which time the announcement was made.

HEXATHALON CONTEST

Local Athletes Had Great Event Six Win Medals.

Harry L. Kulz, who is attending the Academy and has been conducting the junior and intermediate boys' classes at the "Y" has found it necessary to discontinue his leadership on account of baseball and track work. During his 4 months' work he has gained the friendship and interest of the boys. The Hexathalon events on Saturday afternoon and Monday evening was the climax of his most efficient and appreciated services.

The Hexathalon is an International Y. M. C. A. annual events, a series of indoor athletics with standardized rating for each class making it possible for the younger boys to score on a level with the older and more experienced athletes. Each boy making 400 points is presented with an international bronze button as an award, and a silver button for 500 points. Leslie Shultz came within 9 points of making 500 points, having the misfortune of going below his usual high jump record, which would have carried him away beyond that point.

Following are the events: Long distance potato race, short distance potato race, running high jump, standing broad jump, for all classes. For the 110 lb. class, the snap under bar and baseball throw and for the 125 lb. and unlimited classes, the fence vault and 8 lb. shot put.

The following were entered:

80 lb. class: Ross Aplin, Wilbur Badger, Harry Beck, Sheldon Evey, Charles Long, Hugh Miller, Richard Sager, Jackson Spangler, Reynolds Shope.

95 lb. Class. Richard Bleecker, Charles Coder, Joseph Gingery, Earl Heverly, Jacob Hofman and George Ray.

110 lb. Class: Arnold Kalin, Gilbert Shope.

125 lb. Class: Walter Clark, Ray Singhizer, Leslie Shultz, Leslie VanDusen.

Unlimited Class: Donald Best.

The boys who will receive bronze Hexathalon buttons securing points out of a possible 600, are: Shultz, 491; Long, 447; G. Shope, 435; G. Miller, 412; Kalin, 411, and Best, 407.

Use Care in Gathering Flowers.

Care in gathering of arbutus and other wild flowers which soon will appear on our hillsides and in the forests, is urged by Dr. E. M. Gress, state botanist. Some of the flowers mentioned especially by Dr. Gress are the Snow Trillium, found only near Pittsburgh; the hepatica, frequently called liverwort because of the resemblance of the leaves to lobes of liver; the bloodroot, which yields a red juice when the root is cut or broken; and the rue anemone or wind flower, so called because the delicate leaves tremble from the slightest breeze.

Bellefonte Chapter 350 Order of the Eastern Star will hold a card party in the I. O. O. F. hall on Monday evening, April 21st, at 8:30 o'clock, for the benefit of the hospital. The public is invited. Admission 25c.
